REPORT.

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

The total assessment of real and personal property for the year 1898 in the State of New York aggregates $5,170,874,650, of which $4,412,283,410 is the assessment of real property and $758,591,240 personal property. This shows an increase over the assessment of 1897 of $62,481,884 in the assessment of real estate and of $109,226,546 in the assessment of personal property, making the total increase over 1897, $171,708,430.

It should be noted that these figures do not include the recent large increase in real and personal assessment in the city of New York, as the exact amount of such assessment cannot be determined until the time for hearing complaints shall have expired, which will not be until the first day of May, 1899. The figures, therefore, so far as New York is concerned are those of the assessment as it stood on the first of May, 1898.

The increase for the years 1896, 1897 and 1898 in real estate assessment aggregates $503,430,033, and in personal assessment $216,970,118, making a total of $720,400,151.

The commission authorized by chapter 614, Laws of 1898, to enquire into the expediency of revising and amending the statutes relating to taxation of property in the State of New York, and to suggest legislation thereon, was never appointed.

Possibly the fact that the recommendations of so many prior commissions, created for the same purpose, have failed of enactment, accounts for the omission.

We are inclined to the opinion that the revision commission, which is constantly in session; always accessible to members of the Legislature for purposes of consultation or suggestions; thoroughly familiar not only with all laws of this State relating to the direct subject of taxation, but also with all others bearing thereon; having immediately at hand sources of information with regard to the laws of other states on the same subject and the success or failure which has attended the operation of such laws in their various features; is probably better qualified to frame such changes as may be desirable than a special commission appointed for that purpose.

Investigation of the laws passed during the last year by other states discloses very little change of a radical nature, and that little not particularly instructive.

The very able report of the Massachusetts Tax Commission of 1897, which attracted wide attention in all parts of the Union when it was submitted to the Legislature of that State, has resulted in no legislation in accordance with its suggestions.

In Illinois an effort has been made to do away with the gross inequality in assessments, which has long existed in that State. Under the new law passed by the last Legislature, the assessment of real estate is to be made but once every four years instead of annually, and the listing system has been adopted to regulate the assessment of personal property.

The changes in other states have been of comparatively insignificant character.

A recent report of the bureau of labor and industrial statistics of the State of Kansas, in the summary of conclusions at the end thereof, states the first of such conclusions in the following language:

"That as a whole the present tax system in this State could be made no worse than it is."

And among other suggestions it recommends:

"That more time should be allowed assessors in which to complete their work, for it is necessarily imperfect, unequal and unfair, because sufficient time is not allowed to revise lists and ascertain and estimate values. It is a rule of some assessors to copy the old books.

"That there should be greater publicity of assessments. Every man should know the assessment of his neighbor's property as well as his own."

"Complete separation of the source of State and local taxes—removing the temptation to place the burden on the other fellow."

And finally, "That all of the above and foregoing might be best accomplished by the creation of a board of tax commissioners similar to that of New York, with powers and duties outlined as follows:" And there follows an exact copy of section 171 of the tax law of New York State, setting forth the powers and duties of the State Board of Tax-Commissioners.

So much has recently been written and brought to the attention of the legislators of this State regarding the utter inefficiency and inequity of the general property tax, that it seems unnecessary to enlarge upon the subject further.

Attention has frequently been called to the fact that, while it may have been adequate to the necessities of past generations, it has failed to keep pace in its development with the tremendous industrial, commercial and political changes of the last fifty years, and when we read how far into remote antiquity its historic origin seems to extend this fact is not surprising.

Dr. John Christopher Schwab in his history of the New York property tax says: "It is interesting to observe how closely some of the early English assessment laws resemble those of New York of a few centuries later. As early as 1188, at the time of the celebrated Saladin tythe, the method of collecting this general property tax is minutely described. We see in its provisions the prototype of the New York assessment laws."

It would seem as if the "fullness of time" had arrived for the enactment of a tax law for the Empire State a little more up to date.

Possibly one reason why a new and better system has not been adopted is because the practical legislator, in attempting to grapple with the subject, has become lost in the subtle intricacies of the, so called, scientific abstractions of the doctrinaires upon the subject, until he has reached the conclusion that any attempt to carry out their suggestions would simply result in "confusion worse confounded," or that, as one of them once remarked to a member of this board, "A law framed in accordance with such suggestions not only would not work but would not even start."

As one very able contributor to the science of the subject has said, "The writers of the abstract school reason on assumptions to which the every-day facts give the lie." And these every-day facts come constantly within the observation and not infrequently within the personal experience of members of the Legislature. But, because theorists advance schemes which, to the mind of the average man, seem impracticable and visionary, it by no means follows that progress and improvement are impossible and hopeless. It may be that public sentiment has not yet been educated to the point when an enlightened scheme of taxation, adequate to the present and prospective necessities of this State, can be enacted into law; but it is hopefully progressing in that direction.

A constantly increasing interest is being manifested in the subject, which will ultimately impress itself upon the Legislature in the form of a demand so emphatic and determined that it cannot be longer ignored.

The importance of the interests involved is thus clearly and strongly stated by Professor Ely:

“Taxation may create monopolies, or it may prevent them; it may diffuse wealth, or it may concentrate it; it may promote liberty and equal rights, or it may tend to the establishment of tyranny and despotism; it may be used to bring about reforms, or it may be so laid as to aggravate existing grievances and foster dissension and hatred among the classes; taxation may be so controlled by the skillful hand as to give free scope to every opportunity for the creation of wealth or the advancement of all true interests of State and cities, or it may be so shaped by ignoramuses as to place a dead weight on the community in the race for industrial supremacy.”

Ex-Comptroller Roberts, in his last two reports to the Legislature, has expressed himself as becoming more decided, with increased observation and experience as chief fiscal officer of this State, in the opinion that the attempt to reach personal property in the general property tax should be abandoned, and in support of that opinion gives facts and figures, which are already before the Legislature, and therefore need not be repeated here.

Our experience of three years in the effort to enforce the law has brought us to the same conclusion. There is a mistaken idea prevalent, however, that such an expression of opinion is equivalent to advocating the exemption of personal property from taxation. Possibly mere inadvertence or inaccuracy of expression has led many writers or speakers on the subject to give the impression of opposition to the tax; when in fact they were merely opposing the utterly inadequate and inequitable methods prescribed by the law of this State for its enforcement.

The excise tax, the inheritance tax, the franchise tax and other forms of taxation of corporations, all involve the taxation of personal property; and there is no proposition, which requires consideration, looking to the abolition of any of these forms of taxation. On the contrary, it is proposed to equalize, extend or modify, as the case may be, such taxes, so as to reach the sources of personal investment at the fountain head, and thus bring about a vastly more efficient system of taxation than now exists, and at the same time to relieve the assessors of the hopeless task of finding personal property, which has a hundred means of eluding their diligence for every one method open to them for detecting and assessing it. As long, however, as the present law continues to exist, and if no radical change in the entire scheme of taxation of personal property is contemplated by the present Legislature, certain amendments directed to the better and more equitable enforcement of existing provisions ought certainly to be passed. To most of these we called attention in our report of last year, and could now merely reiterate and emphasize what was then said, much of which was a repetition of recommendations made in our report of the previous year, and for details we refer to such reports for the years 1896 and 1897.

Some action seems to be imperatively called for at the hands of this Legislature with regard to the taxation of deposits in savings banks. For years past great difference of opinion has existed as to the construction of the law as it now exists, the result of which has been that in many localities in the State savings bank deposits have always been assessed to the depositor, when such deposits could be ascertained. In other localities, under an opposite construction of the statute, such deposits have been held to be exempt both to the depositors and to the banks, and no such assessments have been made. The injustice arising from this condition of affairs is too apparent to require comment.

A few months ago the appellate division of the Supreme Court in the second judicial department rendered a decision, holding that deposits in savings banks were assessable to the depositor and that the exemption applied only to the banks. A few weeks later, the appellate division of the Supreme Court of the third judicial department rendered a decision to the effect that deposits in savings banks were exempt from assessment both to the bank and to the depositor. The latter case is now under consideration by the Court of Appeals, and an early determination of this vexed question is hoped for. But whatever such determination may be, it would seem that legislation upon the subject will be required.

In his recent very able report to the Legislature, the honorable Superintendent of Banks has taken strong ground against any tax upon savings bank deposits, and remarks, that, "Experience has proven that there are legislators, doubtless because ill-informed, who advocate such taxation."

At the risk of subjecting ourselves to the unflattering imputation of ignorance, in common with certain benighted legislators, we feel obliged to take issue with Mr. Kilburn on this question. He says that such a tax would be, "A discrimination against the provident poor, an oppression of the weak, a penalty laid upon frugality, and a discouragement to those striving against a possible dependence in sickness or age upon public charity."

In our report for the year 1896, we called attention to the fact that large amounts of money were deposited in savings banks by people of comparative wealth, either because of the facility afforded for escaping taxation or because the income therefrom is as large as can be obtained elsewhere with equally satisfactory security, or for both reasons. Since that time we have had many striking illustrations of the increasing prevalence of the conditions so described. In one instance, a single depositor, under examination before the assessors on application for a reduction of personal assessment, testified to the ownership of deposits in savings banks in this State amounting in the aggregate to $53,875. This, of course, is an extreme case, but there are numerous others, differing only in degree and not in kind, in almost every part of the State.

Our attention has been called by local assessors to the fact that many of the most well-to-do citizens in their respective localities have, within the last few years, withdrawn from other forms of investment and placed their money in savings banks; and they have reported to us with great unanimity, that to no single feature of the Tax Law as it now exists is there such general and widespread opposition of public sentiment as to that which has been construed to exempt savings bank deposits from assessment; and we are firmly of the opinion that, if the decision of the Court of Appeals shall determine that such deposits are exempt, there will be a demand upon the Legislature for a change of the law in that particular, which cannot be resisted.

If the Court of Appeals shall decide that such deposits are not exempt, but are assessable to the depositor in the same manner as other personal property, there will still remain the necessity for action by the Legislature, in order to bring about any uniformity in the assessment of this class of property.

In our report for the year 1896, above referred to, upon this subject, the following language was used:

"The assessor has no means of ascertaining the names of depositors or the amount of their deposits, and a very large proportion of this class of property escapes taxation, while the tax falls with great hardship upon those whose deposits are, accidentally or otherwise, ascertained and assessed." * * * "We believe that a small uniform tax payable by the banks upon all deposits liable thereto, directly to the Comptroller of the State, would yield a considerable revenue to the State, without necessitating decreased dividends to the depositors of any single bank, although, of course, decreasing the accumulation of surplus by the amount of the tax, and we would respectfully recommend legislation looking to the accomplishment of that purpose."

We still maintain the views then expressed.

We recently addressed an inquiry to every State in the Union, asking as to the assessment or exemption of savings bank deposits in the respective States. We have received replies up to this date from twenty-five different States, and in no single one is exemption reported. In some States the assessment is solely for State purposes, and in others solely for local purposes; but in every one taxation of savings bank deposits prevails in some form.

An inquiry was also addressed to the State Librarian of New York State, asking for such information upon the subject as might be available in his department, and Mr. Whitten, legislative sub-librarian, to whose courtesy we are indebted, replying thereto, stated, that though his investigations were not complete, he had been unable to find a State having a savings bank system similar to that of New York, which exempts both deposits and surplus from assessment.

In Massachusetts there is a tax of one-half of one per cent. on deposits, subject to certain deductions. In Connecticut it is one-fourth of one per cent., also subject to specified deductions. In Vermont it is seven-tenths of one per cent., subject to deductions. In Rhode Island four-tenths of one per cent. In many of the other States reported, the assessment is the same as that of other personal property.

It would seem that if total exemption is the policy of this State, then New York stands practically alone in that position.

The aggregate of deposits in savings banks in this State is now, in round numbers, about nine hundred millions of dollars. A tax of only one-fourth of one per cent. would produce, even allowing for proper deductions, an income of about two millions to the State treasury; and, as we have stated before, we believe that it could be paid without necessitating any smaller rate of interest to the individual depositor than he would otherwise receive, but assume that it would reduce the rate of interest. The average amount of deposits in all the savings banks of the State, is only about four hundred and twenty-five dollars to each individual depositor. The deduction of certain classes of investment, either non-taxable or otherwise taxed, would reduce that average to less than four hundred dollars. A tax of one-fourth of one per cent. (very much less than the average rate under the general property tax), would make the average tax to the individual depositor about one dollar a year. The small depositor usually pays no other tax. He is generally a good citizen. He would willingly consent to the tax and get more than a dollar's worth of satisfaction from the consciousness of sharing in the support of the government under whose protection he lives. The opposition to the tax will not come from the small depositor, although invoked in his name. It will come from those for whose benefit savings banks were not instituted and who probably have deposits, up to the interest bearing limit, in a half dozen or more different banks.

In accordance with the provisions of section 172 of the Tax Law of 1896, requiring this board "to enquire into the methods of assessments and taxation and ascertain whether the assessors faithfully discharge their duties, and particularly as to their compliance with this act, requiring the assessment of all property not exempt from taxation at its full value," we have made every effort in our power to enforce that specific provision, but we desire to call attention to the fact that the authority of this board is limited to giving instructions to the assessors, which they are called upon to obey under penalty prescribed, but we have no power to enforce such penalties in instances where the instruction, which the law requires at our hands, is disregarded by the assessors.

The power of removal of local assessors for failure to properly perform their duties is vested in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, and the complaint against any individual assessors or board of assessors must come from a resident of the town in which such assessors perform, or neglect to perform, those duties. As the residents of such towns are usually the ones to be benefited, or to believe themselves benefited, by the failure of their assessors to tax property at full value, it will readily be seen that there is great difficulty in the way of removal from office of assessors, who, by reason of wilful failure to properly and legally perform the duties of their office, ought to be removed.

We believe that power of removal should be vested in the Governor, for cause shown, after proper hearing of the charges and the defense, and on complaint of any public official or any private citizen having a knowledge of the facts. We believe also that to do away with many of the excuses given for not assessing real property at its full value, as the law directs, that a statutory definition of "full value" should be embodied in the Tax Law, and suggest that the same should be in substance as we have invariably construed the law in our instructions to assessors upon the subject, viz., that they should assess real property at the value which they would agree upon if selected as arbitrators to determine the price which the owner should take and a prospective buyer should give, in the desire to do absolute justice to both parties, so that the owner should not sacrifice his property nor the buyer give more than its fair value.

We would further suggest that such statutory definition should be made to apply to every tax district in the State, regardless of charter provisions upon the same subject, so that there should be one uniform rule of assessment, too plain to be innocently misunderstood or wilfully disregarded.

During the year 1898 appeals from local equalization have been heard and decided in the counties of Montgomery and Fulton, and an appeal is now pending in the county of Saratoga, the hearing of which was postponed, because at the time for which it was appointed it was probable that another appeal would be taken from the equalization of 1898, which has since been taken, and the postponement was for the purpose of hearing both appeals at the same time.

Notices of appeals were also filed from the equalization of 1897 for the counties of Otsego, Columbia, Lewis, Essex, Cayuga and Monroe, all of which were subsequently discontinued by stipulation.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

At a meeting of the State Board of Equalization, held at the office of the Secretary of State, in the city of Albany, on the 6th day of September, 1898.

Present.—Lieutenant-Governor Timothy L. Woodruff, Comptroller James A. Roberts, Attorney-General Theodore E. Hancock, State Treasurer Addison B. Colvin, State Engineer and Surveyor Campbell W. Adams, Speaker of the Assembly James M. E. O'Grady, State Tax Commissioners Martin Heermance, Edward L. Adams and Rollin L. Jenkins.

Absent.—Secretary of State John Palmer.

The following report was submitted:

To the State Board of Equalization:

The State Board of Tax Commissioners respectfully submit the following report:

The assessed value of real and personal property taxable locally for all purposes in the State of New York for the year 1897 shows a net gain over the assessment of 1896 of $391,625,325; the increase in real property assessment being over three hundred millions of dollars. This enormous increase in the real assessment throughout the State, of course, necessitates a considerable change in the list of percentages, upon which the table of equalization is based.

We have visited, during the year, the counties of Herkimer, Oswego, Putnam, Westchester, Orange, Columbia, Albany, Saratoga, Cayuga, Onondaga, Madison, Seneca, Ontario, Yates, Wayne, Cortland, Tompkins, Chenango, Broome, Tioga, Orleans, Genesee, Wyoming, Chautauqua, Allegany, Chemung, Niagara, Erie, St. Lawrence, Jefferson, Montgomery, Kings and New York.

We have examined assessors and supervisors under oath in these various counties with regard to the methods of assessment therein, and have compared the assessments of thousands of separate parcels of real estate, with appraisements of the same property made under oath; and committees, appointed by the boards of supervisors of many counties, have presented evidence bearing upon the percentage of assessment in their respective counties to the full value of the property assessed. All of which is herewith submitted, together with a list of percentages and the table of equalization based thereon.

In July last the tax commissioners of the city of New York presented to this board a statement relative to the State equalization, which is submitted herewith as part of this report, and which seems to require some comment. The commissioners say that they have investigated for themselves the relative values of assessments as compared with the actual value of real estate in a number of counties and find those counties credited by this board with percentages of assessment to real value much too high, and for eighteen counties they give a list of percentages which, in their opinion, would be more just and equitable. We have asked for the evidence upon which this list was based, but it has not been produced, and we have no knowledge of the marvelous methods by which it must have been evolved.

Concerning the ratio of assessment to real value, in many of these counties, however, we have evidence of such a conclusive character as to show that the estimate by the city commissioners, as regards those counties, is so grotesquely and preposterously absurd as to deprive it of any value. For instance, the commissioners allege that Albany county should only be credited with 49 per cent., while in the table herewith presented it is given 78. It will be remembered that at the last meeting of the State Board of Equalization, a committee appeared on behalf of the board of supervisors of Albany county and made a strong argument, supported by documentary evidence, to show that Albany county was entitled to be rated at not less than 85 per cent. A long list of sales of real property in the city of Albany and in the towns of the county was presented, which, if accepted as final, would have abundantly sustained that contention. A sale of eighteen separate pieces of real property, belonging to one estate in the city of Albany, had recently taken place at auction. The sale was well advertised and largely attended by men of means, known as investors in real property. The aggregate of prices obtained was twenty-three thousand dollars less than the aggregate assessments on the same property. So many instances have been brought to our attention of real property bringing, at private sale, less than the assessment, and of real estate brokers in the city of Albany, having property on their books for sale, at prices less than it was assessed for, that it seems to be the rule rather than the exception. In most instances, we find country property assessed higher in proportion to full value than city property in the same county; but there are exceptions. Had this board been satisfied that the rest of Albany county was as well assessed as the city of Albany, the county would have been credited with a higher rate, and we have no doubt as to its being fairly entitled to the percentage awarded it. We cannot go through the entire list of counties, but will select those which have presented the fullest evidence to this board. From Columbia county which, according to the estimate of the New York city commissioners, is only assessed at 53 per cent. of full value, in addition to the sworn testimony of the assessors and supervisors taken at our meeting there, we have a very clear and elaborate report as to assessment conditions, prepared by Judge Cady and Judge Longley, as counsel to a committee of the board of supervisors, setting forth a long list of sales in the city of Hudson and the towns of the county, showing an average assessment of the property sold to the prices obtained of over 84 per cent.

Precisely the same class of evidence has been presented from Dutchess county, where the New York city commissioners estimate that property is only assessed at 55 per cent. of its value. For three years past a committee of the board of supervisors of that county has annually presented a comparative list of selling prices and assessments of real estate throughout the entire county, showing an average assessment of not less than 81 per cent. in any one of those years, and of over 85 per cent. in 1897. It is proper to state, in this connection, that these lists are certified to contain all the recorded sales in which the consideration could be ascertained, whether the assessments were higher or lower than the selling price, and are not selected for the purpose of establishing a high ratio of assessment.

Monroe county, according to the New York city commissioners, is only assessed at an average of 45 per cent. of actual value. A hotly-contested appeal from the local equalization by the board of supervisors of that county was tried before this board last year. The nineteen towns of the county were appellants and the city of Rochester was respondent. Each side was represented by able counsel. The hearing occupied several days, and the testimony was very voluminous. Every possible effort was made by the appellants to expose the lowest ratio of assessments to full value in the city of Rochester, and by the respondent to show the same conditions in the nineteen towns. In any possible view of the evidence, it was clearly established that Monroe county is entitled to be credited, on State equalization, with a percentage considerably higher than that of last year. The same facts apply to Montgomery county. An appeal was tried in that county last year, and, from all the evidence, it clearly appears that Montgomery county is assessed at an average of 70 per cent., and yet on the list of the New York city commissioners it figures at 39.

Onondaga county has presented a long list of sales, duly certified, to show that it is entitled to a higher percentage than 85, while on the New York estimate it is listed at only 47.

Oswego county has submitted a list of over 360 separate sales of real estate, certified to contain practically every sale of real estate between a willing seller and willing buyer occurring in that county within the past two years, and the aggregate of prices obtained compared with the aggregate assessments for the same property shows the property sold to have been assessed at 104 per cent. of the selling price.

Most of the other counties referred to in the statement of the New York city commissioners, in common with many other counties not cited in that statement, have presented evidence in support of the contention vigorously pressed that they should be credited on the State equalization with higher percentages than have hitherto been awarded them. Whatever weight may be properly conceded or denied to this evidence as a whole, it is certainly sufficient, in connection with the sworn testimony of assessors and supervisors, to prove that the statement of the New York city commissioners was made in such absolute ignorance of existing facts as to render it utterly valueless.

No evidence of any kind has been presented by New York county to show the percentage of assessment to full value there, and we have sought information from every source open to us. We have compared the expressed consideration in deeds of real estate in various parts of the county with the assessments of the same property. When this method was objected to as inaccurate, we had the same property appraised by real estate brokers of long experience in New York city. We have compared the prices obtained on sales at public auction with the assessments of the same property. We have individually inquired of our friends and acquaintances owning real estate in New York city what they paid for it, and what it was assessed for. We have examined mortgage loans made by savings banks, limited by law to fifty per cent. of the value of the property mortgaged as security, and have ascertained the assessment of the property; and, following all these various lines of inquiry and many others, we are forced to the conclusion that if all the real estate in New York county were assessed, as the law directs, at full value, the assessment of real property in that county would be nearly, if not quite, doubled.

The increase in the assessed valuation of real estate in 1897 over the previous year in New York and Kings counties was less than three per cent., while the increase in the balance of the State was twelve per cent.

The permits issued by the building department of New York for the year 1897 were, for new buildings and alterations, $91,860,247; for Brooklyn for 1897 the amount was $18,030,393, making a total of $109,890,640. While these figures are claimed by New York to be unreliable, they constitute the only recorded evidence of the value of such improvements, and, though the amount may be in excess of the actual cost of the improvements, it cannot be seriously claimed that any increase in the ratio of assessment to full value was made in New York or Brooklyn when the amount of permits issued exceeds the amount of the increase in the assessed valuation nearly forty millions of dollars.

Notwithstanding the fact that all the evidence in our possession tends to prove that real property in New York county is not assessed as high as sixty-three per cent. of full value, the percentage with which it has been credited for several years past in the State equalization, nevertheless, to avoid any possibility of injustice to that county in the table herewith presented, it is still credited with that ratio.

In the statement presented by the New York city commissioners, this language is used: "Although we have not a representative upon your board by which investigation can be made to officially sustain our figures, nevertheless we can submit to your careful consideration the information herein submitted, with the hope that a reduction and not an increased valuation will be allowed this city by your board." So far as New York city being unrepresented upon this board is concerned, we can only say that we have repeatedly stated to the city tax commissioners that every scintilla of evidence in our possession is open at any time to their inspection. We have notified the city commissioners of the dates when hearings were to be given by this board to committees from various counties of the State, appointed for the purpose of submitting evidence to show the ratio of assessment to full value in their respective counties, and have requested the city commissioners to be present at such hearings, or to send some one to represent them to investigate the evidence submitted and to cross-examine, if they so desired, the members of the several committees appearing before us, but the city commissioners have never found it convenient to attend or to send a representative. We would be very glad to have a member of the city board attend all of our meetings held with the assessors and supervisors, as required by law in the various counties of the State, and we would willingly act upon any suggestions which he might offer to make such examinations more searching and effective in method or more accurate in results.

As regards the table of equalization herewith submitted, we are confident that, if every member of the State Board of Tax Commissioners were a resident taxpayer in the county of New York, upon the evidence now before this board, in the exercise of sound judgment in good conscience, no result more favorable to the county of New York could be reached in the State equalization; and, if such table works any injustice as between New York county and the rest of the State, we are thoroughly convinced that the county of New York is not the sufferer thereby.

MARTIN HEERMANCE,

* The property in the incorporated village of Homer is assessed separately from that in the remainder of the town and the taxes are levied upon a different ratio. The smaller of the two ratios in Homer represents that upon which the taxes are extended in the village. The larger ratio is for the town outside the village.

* The apparent discrepancy in the ratios of the towns of Bridgewater, Kirkland, Paris and Sangerfield is due to the fact that there has been already paid to the County Treasurer out of funds in the hands of the respective towns, to be applied upon the State and County taxes the following sums, Bridgewater $3,000, Kirkland $6,000, Paris $5,000 and Sangerfield $3,000, which said sums are deducted from the aggregate taxation as per column 13, before the ratio is struck—STEWART F. DAY, Clerk.
